BACKGROUND:

Beginning in the early 1980’s, a number of programs were developed in this country and throughout the world based on the assumption that some low income persons, many dependent on traditional welfare programs, have the potential for self-sufficiency through self-employment. These programs suggest that appropriate training and minimal financial assistance can help those possessing such potential. While our state has been involved in demonstration projects to assist unemployed persons in establishing their own businesses, no program exists to build this capacity on the local level.

SUMMARY:

The self-employment loan program is established in the Department of Community Development. Through the program, the department will solicit and approve applications for funds from local development organizations to use as a revolving loan fund to finance the small businesses of low income persons.

The committee will award funds to local organizations on a competitive basis. Applications to the committee must include: 1) a detailed description of the need for a self-employment program in the particular community; 2) a detailed description of the applicant organization and its capacity to be a program administrator, and 3) a detailed description of the loan procedure and the self-employment training and support program into which the loan fund will be incorporated.
The department may not approve any application for greater than $60,000. It may grant up to two awards to a single organization, but only one per biennium. The department may withdraw an award if an organization fails to meet the purposes of the act. It must report biennially to the Legislature on the progress and status of the overall program.

A local development organization may provide loans from awarded funds of no greater $5,000 per person. It must report annually to the department on the progress and status of its program.
