Hearing Date: 4/2/13

Staff: Joan Elgee (786-7106).

Background:

Most types of employment in the state are covered for purposes of unemployment insurance. Workers may receive benefits and unemployment contributions (taxes) are owed. Similarly, workers' compensation benefits may be paid and employers are responsible for paying premiums (or self-insuring, if qualified) for most employment. For both unemployment insurance and industrial insurance purposes, newspaper delivery persons selling or distributing newspapers on the street or from house to house are excluded from mandatory coverage.

The Minimum Wage Act establishes standards for employee minimum wage, overtime compensation, and recordkeeping. Newspaper vendors and carriers are excluded from the Minimum Wage Act.

Also excluded from coverage is any freelance news correspondent or "stringer" who, using his or her own equipment, submits material for free or for a fee when the material is published.
