$19 Business License Application Fee; $5 Registering business as trade name; $200 per location License Fee; $50 per transport vehicle; $10,000 bond required.	Submit the license application to BLS with the fees. Then, send $10,000 bond to Ecology.
$19 Business License Application Fee; $5 Registering business as trade name; $250 License Fee; Bond Requirement; Local health department fees will vary.	This requires a WAC 173-350 permit from a local health department if the number of waste tires exceeds 800 tires (or 8 tons). The application and permit fees will vary by health department. Timelines depend on completeness of application and if other local permits are required (i.e. Conditional Use Permit). Typically, a complete application with no other requirement may get approval in 90 days or less. Local health has 45 days to review and Ecology has 45 days to review.

Varies, generally ranges from $300 to $25,000 annually, depending on scope of accreditation.	Laboratories wanting accreditation can visit Ecology's website, download the application, fill it out, and submit either a physical copy through the mail or an electronic copy via e-mail.
No Fee.	Submit online application form.
No fee.	Complete registration using Ecology's UIC Web registration. Paper copies available if internet access is not. UIC coordinator reviews registration. If rule is met, then send out rule authorization letter or email.

Applicant must ensure Section J is signed by an official of the local sewer utility and treatment works. Note: Sometimes persons completing this application get stuck because they don't know if they discharge to a publicly owned treatment works (POTW) which has been delegated the authority to issue pretreatment permits. In such cases they may A) call the contact listed on the sewer bill, or B) complete the application up to Section J (near the end) where it asks for endorsement by the servicing POTW official. When POTWs receive a request to endorse an application, they will inform the applicant if they, rather than Ecology, are the Control Authority for pretreatment permits that serves their address. The information such delegated programs need to make permitting decisions is generally similar to what Ecology's form requires, but formats vary.

No	In 2017 two racing associates were granted race dates to conduct pari-mutuel racing. All had been previously licensed. The most recent license was issued to Emerald Racing LLC in 2015. Processing time is approximately 5 months.

No	The WHRC licenses all persons who participate directly in pari-mutuel horse racing (and have access to the restricted areas of the track). While the majority of licenses are issued to individuals, some of these individuals are involved in commercial activities at the track. For that reason they are considered "businesses" for the purpose of this effort. The only delay in issuing a license is when an applicant discloses a racing violation or criminal conviction, which requires they see the stewards before a license can be issued. Most licenses are issued at the time of application. (See GMAP on agency web site)
